Nvidia Data Scan 2.53, NFS:.Fabrication of immunochip microarray for sensitive antibody detection of foot-and-mouth disease virus. We have developed a microarray for antigen detection. The microarray is prepared using immunochips, which use glass fiber membrane for immobilizing antigen. In order to facilitate the fixation of the glass fiber membrane to the glass slide, the glass fiber was pretreated with sucrose to cause a swelling of the glass fiber membrane. We subsequently fabricated a microarray with immobilized goat anti-mouse Ig antibody using an antibody immobilization method, which involves omitting heating step and treating the glass fiber membrane with antibody prior to immobilization. As demonstrated with mouse monoclonal antibody to foot-and-mouth disease virus, the microarray allowed a detection of 2 ng of the virus in 10 ml of sample.
